RE: [REDACTED]
State vs. [REDACTED]
State Court of Forsyth County
February 16-17, 2009

Dear Dr. Weinstein:

It is difficult to express the difficulty of the legal field, and the aspects that come along with it. Few experts understand it, and a greater number are ill-equipped and unprepared to excel or work in it. It is apparent when observing experts testifying that the skill sets necessary are difficult to obtain, if not impossible. Few people are blessed with these gifts, and to come across a unique individual that not only understands the legal system, jurors, defendant, and plaintiff, but also excels on the witness stand, is unique. A gifted individual such as you is tantamount to winning the expert lottery.

This was a unique client, with accusations of domestic violence, threat of a temporary protective order, an imminent divorce, and criminal charges by a heavy-handed solicitor. As you know, our client was charged with four counts of battering his ex-wife, and one count of disorderly conduct, which was totally false. With your expert testimony our client secured a "Not Guilty" verdict and was able to return home to take care of his young son. You were not only informative but knowledgeable, and phenomenal to watch in and out of the courtroom. The jurors were on the edge of their seats during your testimony, as if spell bound. I have never witnessed this behavior in a jury trial to date. Without your expert testimony, I believe the outcome would have been absolutely different. You saved the day.

You were also instrumental in securing equal parenting time for our client in his divorce. Your invaluable insights and your vast experience all contributed to a wonderful result.

Few of us know what our calling is in life, but you have achieved a great advantage. Your field of choice surely benefits tremendously from your knowledge, passion and skill. I can only express admiration for the way you conduct yourself. You are great, and a tremendous pleasure to work with. I am so thankful that I have had the opportunity to work with you, and hope to continue to do so for many years to come.

Sincerely,
